 Debriefing of LIVACATE/KO - his trip to Cuba 208

PREPARATION

LIVACATE/1 left Monterrey for Mazatlan on 19 July 1964, (HMYA-2236) arriving there on 20 July. Upon arrival he was told that he had been called by Arnolde MARTINEZ Verdugo, first-secretary of the Central Committee of the Mexican Communist Party (PCM), on 19 July, but that he had not left a message. On 21 July Gregorio RODRIGUEZ Rotta, Head of the Central Control Commission of the PCM, called and said that the Central Committee wanted him to go to Cuba for the 26 July celebrations as the representative of that committee. L/1 told RODRIGUEZ he would go. L/1 then contacted Subject of 201-328380 who was staying at L/1's home in Monterrey and told him to send his Passport to PCM headquarters in Mexico City. (L/1 contacted Subject of 201-328380 by telephoning a messenger service, which in turn delivered the message.)

On 22 July L/1 received a moneygram from RODRIGUEZ in the amount of 150.00 Mexican pesos to pay his expenses from Mazatlan to Mexico City. L/1 departed Mazatlan that same day and arrived in Mexico City on 23 July and contacted MARTINEZ. MARTINEZ told L/1 that the presidium wanted him to represent the Central Committee at the 26 July celebrations and he would be the only representative, even though other PCM members would be making the trip. L/1 does not know why he was selected as the representative, but believes that MARTINEZ was the person behind his selection. L/1 obtained a Cuban courtesy visa on 24 July and departed for Cuba via Cubana Airlines on 25 July.

ARRIVAL

Upon arrival in Habana the occupants of the plane were met by representatives of the Instituto Cubano de Amistad del Pueblos (ICAP) who took care of them at the airport until their plane left for Santiago de Cuba. The plane for Santiago departed the evening of 25 July arriving the same night. They were not given customs examinations at either airport. L/1 and Juan DUCH Coliel, along with other delegates, were housed in a dormitory on the campus of the Universidad del Sur.

MEXICAN DELEGATION

L/1 reported that there were from 17 to 20 Mexican delegates at the 26 July celebration. He could not name all of the delegates, but said there were three from Yucatan and four from Veracruz, all of whom were selected by the respective Cuban Consulate in that area. L/1 said the most important Mexican delegate was Alberto BREMAUNTZ, Rector of the University of Michoacan. L/1 said that BREMAUNTZ is a self-admitted Marxist, considers himself one of the old revolutionaries because he was in the Army in the last stages of the revolution, and is extremely knowledgeable about agrarian affairs. (NOTE: The local press in late September 1964 reported that the University of Michoacan was planning to send Mexican technicians to Cuba to help the Cuban industrial program and to teach in Universities in order to train Cuban technicians. BREMAUNTZ was mentioned as being behind this move.)

The second delegate in importance was Jose Luis CECENA, Jr., son of the famous Mexican economist. L/1 said that CECENA is a professor at the University of Sinaloa. (NOTE: Local press reported in middle September that CECENA was searched after his return to Mexico from Cuba and a great deal of propaganda was confiscated. According to these reports, a plan was found for revamping the entire educational program at the University of Sinaloa so that more Marxism would be taught.)

Other delegates named by L/1 were:

Maximo de Leon Garza, politician and member of the PCM;
 Juan BUCH Collet, writer and member of the PCM. (NOTE: Bio-data on BUCH will be forwarded by separate dispatch.);
 Froylan MONJARRÉS, writer and member of the PCM;
 "Rius", political cartoonist and member of the PCM; and Rodrigo MOYA, photographer, writer, and member of the PCM.

L/1 reported that the entire group of Mexican delegates were together only on 26 July and after that they went their separate ways. The Mexican delegates were given red-carpet treatment throughout the visit. L/1 also reported that it would be extremely difficult for him to get a list of the entire Mexican delegation because Cuba is the only bloc country that does not send its guest list to the PCM for comments.

OTHER DELEGATIONS

L/1 estimated that there were about 500 official delegates to the celebration. There was an important delegation from Communist China, headed by a high official of the Government, but L/1 could not remember any names. He said that to his knowledge, the CHICOM did not try to join with any other delegations nor to seduce any of them to the Chinese line. They did hold several parties and get together, but only Cuban Government officials were invited.

The only U.S. delegates seen by L/1 were newspapermen and some of the students. He was told by the ICAP people that there were about 80 U.S. students of which five or six were members of the CPUSA and only three or four of the entire delegation spoke Spanish. L/1 talked to a student from California for a very ~~few~~ very few minutes in the lobby of the Hotel Nacional. L/1 did not remember his name, but said he spoke Spanish and his parents were Mexicans who had immigrated to the U.S. L/1 could not describe the student nor did he know if the student was one of the CPUSA members. L/1 said that the students were very bad representatives, even though the Cuban papers played-up what a great group they were. L/1 said they were drunkards, dirty, and immoral.

HOUSING AND SERVICES

As reported above, L/1 stayed on the campus of the Universidad del Sur while in Santiago. In Habana he and Juan DUCH Collet shared a room at the Hotel Nacional. All expenses were paid by the Cuban Government except their bar bills. DUCH wrote two articles for El Mundo, for which he was paid 100.00 Cuban pesos. DUCH in turn gave L/1 40.00 pesos from this. They used this money to pay their bar bills. (L/1 said that DUCH was overpaid and this was the way the Cuban Government gave them spending money.) A car and driver were placed at their disposal as well as two guides:

a) The chauffeur was (fnu) CHAVEZ. He is a taxi driver whom the government hired to take care of them. He did not talk much.

b) The most talkative and knowledgeable guide was Isabel HERNANDEZ, who L/1 described as about 26-27 years of age, attractive and a member of the PURS. She had been a member of the PSP and had worked at the Cuban Embassy in Honduras. She is a full-time guide for the ICAP.

c) The second guide was Henrique (lnu), a university student and part-time guide for ICAP. He is a recent member of the Union de Jovenes Comunistas (UJC), but holds no office in the UJC. L/1 said that he did not know much about political happenings in inner-circles of the parties. L/1 said that he is about 22 years of age.

Unless otherwise indicated, L/1 obtained the bulk of his information from conversations with the above persons, especially HERNANDEZ.

PCM ASSIGNMENT

L/1 was instructed by MARTINEZ Verdugo to contact Ramon CALCINES, member of the provisional presidium of the PURS in charge of PURS foreign relations, and ask him several questions about the planned Three-Continent Congress. L/1 visited CALCINES on 3 August in his office located in the ICAP building. During this meeting they exchanged greetings and made an appointment to meet again on 6 August. On 6 August L/1 returned, but CALCINES was busy so another appointment was made for 11 August. On 11 August CALCINES asked L/1 when he was leaving and L/1 told him 14 August and said that it was most important that he receive answers to the questions given him by MARTINEZ. CALCINES then told L/1 to return on 14 August before his plane departed. (As it turned out, L/1's plane was delayed until 15 August.) The results of L/1's interview with CALCINES were forwarded to Headquarters in MHTY-0901. L/1 also was to ask about the health of Paula Medrano de ENCINA, wife of Dionicio ENCINA, imprisoned former secretary-general of the PCM. CALCINES told L/1 that Medrano de ENCINA had returned to Mexico, apparently cured. (ENCINA is imprisoned in Mexico City under the charge of social dissolution.)

L/1 said the longest he talked to CALCINES was on 14 August when they met for one-half hour. L/1 said that CALCINES' offices are located in the ICAP building and everyone knows that CALCINES is the head of the ICAP, even though Gildardo MAZZOLA is listed as being in charge.

L/1 was accompanied to each meeting by DUCH.

L/1 described CALCINES as being about 38 years of age, married and has at least two children, a boy and a girl. (L/1 saw a picture of the family on CALCINES' desk.) L/1 said that in 1950 CALCINES was working for the Juventud Socialista Popular (JSP) and was assigned as the Cuban representative to the World Federation of Democratic Youth (WFDY). In this capacity he visited Mexico several times. He knows MARTINEZ Verdugo and Manuel TERRAZAS Guerrero well. L/1 said that he had met CALCINES in Mexico in 1952, when L/1 was a leader of the Mexican Communist Youth (JCM). CALCINES remembered meeting L/1 at that time.

INTERVIEW WITH "Che" GUEVARA

About 8 August (L/1 is not sure of the date) L/1 attended an interview granted by GUEVARA to MONJAREZ, DUCH, RINS, and MOYA. MAZZOLA, listed chief of the ICAP, also attended. L/1 said that although all the non-Cubans present were PCM members, the interview was conducted as a straight interview, i.e. a Cuban official talking to Mexican reporters. L/1 said that nothing of real interest was discussed. "Che" admitted that the attempted industrialization had not been a great success because they made too many mistakes. He gave as an example a factory to build bicycles which they tried to develop. He said they bought equipment from the Czechs, built the factory, and then found that they could only make frames, since they had no way of making tires, pedals, handlebars, etc. "Che" said that he believed Cuba would be able to solve its most pressing industrial problems in the next two or three years by careful planning and increased non-bloc trade.

The interview is to be published in the Mexican weekly magazine Siempre sometime in the near future. (L/I said that the interview caused a real problem because MELIAJUEZ and BUCH got into an argument over who was going to write the article for Siempre. L/I said the problem had not been resolved when they left Cuba so he does not know whose byline will be used on the article.)

After the interview was completed, "Che" said "Now, let's talk for a minute as revolutionaries". He then asked what stand Gustavo DIAZ Ordaz, President elect of Mexico, is going to take toward Cuba after he is inaugurated. The consensus of the Mexicans present was that DIAZ will follow the political line of Adolfo LOPEZ MATEOS, President, for two or three months after his inauguration, but that nobody knows what he will do after that time. "Che" then said it is very important that Mexico continue its present policy toward Cuba, because all of the rest of the LA countries were going to break relations.

The interview was held in the conference room of GUEVARA in the Ministry of Industry. "Che" was very friendly, relaxed, and made everyone feel at home. L/I said that he was very favorably impressed by "Che" and his attitude. According to L/I "Che" and BUCH got along especially well.

TALKS WITH RAUL VALDEZ VIVO

L/I and BUCH visited the offices of Ray sometime between 1 and 5 August in order to see Raul VALDEZ Vivo. L/I said that he last saw VALDEZ in 1954 and was afraid that VALDEZ would not remember him. (BUCH had never met VALDEZ). When they entered the building they were stopped by a militiaman who asked them what they wanted. L/I explained who he was and asked the militiaman to call VALDEZ. The militiaman did so and VALDEZ said to let them pass. VALDEZ gave L/I a big "abrazo" and explained that he was very busy, but asked L/I to come back at a later date so they could talk. (L/I said that BUCH was very impressed by the warm reception which L/I received.)

L/I, without BUCH, re-visited VALDEZ about 7 August. VALDEZ immediately asked L/I what stand DIAZ Ordaz was going to take toward Cuba. L/I repeated the answer given to GUEVARA. (L/I said that all of the Cubans appeared to be worried about DIAZ and he was frequently asked this question.) VALDEZ said that things would be very grave if Mexico broke relations with Cuba and that the Cuban Government was doing everything in its power to see that Mexico maintains its present policy.

VALDEZ told L/1 that the economy of Cuba is in bad shape because of earlier mistakes, but that the leaders believe they can have the economy in good condition in four or five years. VALDEZ pointed out that CASTRO had said there would be eggs for everyone in 1963, but this promise has not yet been fulfilled, which hurts morale. He said that the sugar crops have not been meeting expectations, but that the 1964 crop should be a good one. He said all of these things hurt the revolutionary movement, but that they had faith that these problems would be solved. VALDEZ continued by saying that the Soviets are putting in enough money and goods to keep them going, even though a lot of the goods are not appropriate for Cuba and are of poor quality. He said everyone jokes about the Soviet goods, but he believes that the increased trade with England, France, and Spain will help solve this problem, since they can supply a lot of articles more appropriate for Cuban consumption.

L/1 asked VALDEZ about anti-CASTRO activity in Cuba and VALDEZ said that there was very little in Cuba and that things were especially quiet in Habana. VALDEZ said that during the May invasion scare, government spies put the same marks on their doors as the counter-revolutionaries were to do in order to fool and confuse the invaders. (L/1 got the impression from this that the government is well aware of the identities of persons against the regime as well as a lot of the plans of the counter-revolutionaries.)

L/1 asked VALDEZ about the effect of the Sino-Soviet dispute on the various parties in Cuba. VALDEZ refused to comment on this by saying that Cuba had not yet adopted a line relative to this matter. He said that feeling for the CHICONS is strong in Cuba because their own revolution was accomplished by violent means and also because of the large Chinese population in Cuba. On the other hand, VALDEZ continued, it is the Soviets who are keeping the Castro Government going and the CHICONS are providing very little and probably could not supply more if called upon to do so. VALDEZ said that these factors place CASTRO and the FURS in a very delicate spot, so no definite decision has been made. (NOTE: According to L/1, when VALDEZ and other Cuban Communists discuss policy of the FURS, this also includes the 26 July Movement, PSP, Directorio, etc., since the FURS is a combination of all the other groups.)

VALDEZ asked questions about some of his old friends in Mexico and about La Voz de Mexico, official newspaper of the PCM, which L/1 answered in general terms. VALDEZ was especially interested in ENCINA and his possible release from prison. L/1 told him that no one knew exactly when ENCINA would be released from prison, but that he still has a strong following in the Party.

L/1 and VALDEZ agreed to meet at a later date, but L/1 left Cuba before they could get together again.

DEBRIEFING QUESTIONS FURNISHED BY MEXICO CITY STATION

COMMENT BY LIVACATE/1: The old PSP has been dissolved and all of the old members are working within the so-called Partido Unido de la Revolucion Socialista (PURS). There are various factions within the PURS, but CASTRO has been able to maintain unity between these factions.

What is the PSP attitude toward Vicente LOMBARDO Toledano? What were personal, privately expressed opinions of PSP leaders about him?

The opinion heard about LOMBARDO was that he is a "reformist", but because of his support for Cuba, he must be supported. Publicly, they speak well of him and his name is sometimes mentioned in the press in glowing terms. In private, they criticize him for his "reformism".

What position, if any, is the PSP taking regarding the charges and countercharges made between the PPS, PCM, FEP, CGI, HEM, etc.? Is this official Party position different from those personal opinions privately expressed by high-ranking PSP leaders? In what way?

The Cuban leaders regret the differences existing in the Left in Mexico and believe that unity would be the best course; however, they also realize that it is inevitable that there will be factions, groups, and internal conflicts because of the Mexican political attitude, i.e. opportunism, caudillism, etc. Personally, the PURS leaders sympathize with the PCM, but at the same time realize that the PCM is so small that it cannot do much.

Who were the official PCM, FEP, CGI, HEM, and PPS representatives present?

(L/1 could only provide the name of the PCM representative. He added that all of these organizations maintain contact with the Cuban Government via the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City. L/1 does not know the names of the persons making the contacts.)

What, if any, subjects were discussed which would involve concerted activities by Communist parties throughout Central and/or South America? Such as: CUAL - Are any plans being made to hold another congress to form a united Latin American Labor Union Movement? When? Where? Who is considered to be the leader (s)? Were any representatives of the WFTU, WIMP, WFDY present? Who? Was the World Youth Congress discussed? Is it to be held in Havana? When? What is the Agenda? Who is on the Preparatory Committee? Where and when does the Committee meet?

The Cuban Government follows closely the revolutionary movement in Latin America, particularly the activities in Venezuela, Colombia, British Guiana, and Guatemala, because they consider these the areas where there is greater possibility for political change in the near future. In regard to Chile, the Government does not believe that the FRAP will win the election, but they respect the opinions of the Frapistas in this regard. No mention was made of the CUTAL, but everything tends to indicate that the congress will be delayed. The congress will be held in the South American country which, at the time of the congress, can offer the greatest guarantee that the delegates will not be bothered. The leaders of the CUTAL are the Chileans Luis FIGUEROA and Oscar NUÑEZ. There are other leaders from Latin America, but I do not know their names. One problem is that Mexico does not have an official representative in the group organizing the CUTAL.

Nothing was said about the representatives of the WFTU, WIDF, and WFDY, if representatives were present, at the 26 July celebrations. It is believed in Mexico that plans are being made to hold the Ninth World Festival of Youth and Students for Peace and Friendship in Habana, but nothing concrete has been done to organize it. It appears that the Cuban leaders are not in agreement on whether or not the Congress should be held in Habana.

Second congress for the Independence of the Peoples of America and Solidarity with Cuba. Is it to be held in Habana? At all. If not Habana, where? When? Who is on the preparatory Committee? Where and when does it meet? Has the agenda been set? What is it? What organizations are sponsors? Who is financing it?

The Leftist groups in Uruguay, Chile, and Argentina are all anxious to fix the date for the Second Congress and are proposing that it be held in Montevideo; however, the Cuban Government has not yet reached a definite opinion about where and when the congress should be held. The preparatory committee is in Montevideo at the present time and is composed of persons from Uruguay, Chile, Argentina, and Brazil. No names were mentioned. The order of business has not been agreed upon. The greater part of the expenses will be paid by the Cuban Government, but discreetly and this will not be announced publicly. (Please see MHTY-0901, which also contains information pertaining to the congress.)

(NOTE: LIVACATE/L was very curious about the trial of Marcos RODRIGUEZ and asked many questions about the trial, etc. while in Cuba. The following are answers to questions submitted by Mexico City about this matter; however, the Base is continuing to debrief L/1 about facts not brought out in the questions. This information will be forwarded at a later date.)

Was Marcos RODRIGUEZ guilty of the crime as charged?

Officially, yes, but there are a lot of people who have doubts. The doubters say that he was just a symbol of factional disputes between the various groups, such as the 26 July Movement, PSP, etc. There was no real proof presented against him at the trial, only circumstantial. HERNANDEZ said that she did not agree that he was guilty. VALDEZ Vivo, one of the witnesses at the trial, said that the verdict was just, but VALDEZ refused to make further comment. (VALDEZ testified because he was the head of the Juventud Socialista Universitaria during the period that RODRIGUEZ was supposedly a member of the Juventud. VALDEZ testified that RODRIGUEZ was not a member of the Juventud as charged by Faure CHOMON.)

L/1 said that to his knowledge the only secret testimony during the second or open trial was the testimony of Faure CHOMON. CHOMON testified, at Government orders, that RODRIGUEZ was a member of the PSP and that Edith GARCIA Buchaca, wife of Joaquin ORDOQUI, knew about RODRIGUEZ and his connections with the Humbolt 7 group in 1958. Later, when CHOMON testified publicly and after his testimony had been refuted, CHOMON repented his earlier statements and gave a self-criticism. Fidel CASTRO accepted CHOMON's repentance and said that he was forgiven. CASTRO acted as mediator and as such was able to arrange the trial and testimony so that the PSP and the Directoria Revolucionaria were criticized and made to look at fault, while the 26 July Movement came out clean.

The first or secret trial was held about two months before the open trial. There was so much criticism, so many rumors, and open suspicion about the death sentence that CASTRO decided there should be an open trial to clear the air. CASTRO wrote an open letter to Ray about a second trial, but Blas ROCA refused to print the letter. CASTRO then went to the Ray offices and insisted that ROCA publish the letter. The second trial was then held with TV and radio coverage, except the first testimony of CHOMON.

Was RODRIGUEZ a member of the PSP?

He was a member of the Directoria Estudiantil Revolucionaria headed by CHOMON and CHAVARRIA. He held no leadership position. They said at the trial that he became a member of the PSP in 1958. (L/1 did not know if this were true. He said it could have been an arrangement made by CASTRO to make both groups look bad.)

Who recommended RODRIGUEZ for the Party?

During the trial, several witnesses said that he entered the PSP after being recommended by ORDOQUI and BUCHACA. Both were downgrading and

exonerated by CASTRO of having any knowledge connecting RODRIGUEZ and the Humbolt 7 group. (L/1 reported that RODRIGUEZ lived with ORDOQUI and his wife in Mexico in 1958 while he was in exile. ORDOQUI and BUCHACA lived in Mexico from about 1955 to 1958.)

Was he a relative of Carlos Rafael RODRIGUEZ?

Carlos Rafael RODRIGUEZ testified at the trial that they were not related. (L/1 had no knowledge to refute this.)

Did RODRIGUEZ come from a Communist family or background?

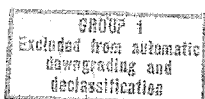

The family of RODRIGUEZ was not active politically, until they tried to develop contacts in order to save the life of RODRIGUEZ.

Why did the Government let RODRIGUEZ lie in jail for three years prior to bringing him to trial?

RODRIGUEZ was arrested in 1959 during the investigation of the deaths of the martyrs of Humbolt 7. The Government investigated the case and decided that someone who had information relative to the location of the four persons killed had been the informant and that it was not police luck that they were found. RODRIGUEZ was one of the persons who knew their location. He was released due to lack of evidence. He then went to Czechoslovakia on a scholarship and while there also worked in the Cuban Embassy in Prague. He got into some sexual problems (he was a homosexual) and was kicked out of Czechoslovakia. This fact went against him at the trial. In 1962 he was re-arrested for being involved in the deaths of the Humbolt 7 group. He stayed in jail all the time the Government was investigating the case, which took a long time because the evidence was weak and they wanted to get as many facts against him as they could. He was probably held incommunicado because of the political implications which later came out in the trial.

What was the real purpose for the trial?

The investigation was started to settle the question of the Humbolt 7 group and the trial was the result of the investigation. The trial turned out to be a real problem, because it showed the factionalism existing within the Cuban revolutionary movement.

Do you really believe RODRIGUEZ was executed?

(L/1 said that everyone he talked to was convinced that RODRIGUEZ had been executed before a firing squad and that he had no reason to think any differently.)

The PSP stand relative to the trial?

The old PSP leaders doubt that RODRIGUEZ was guilty, because of the lack of evidence, but they are not voicing their doubts where they can be heard by persons dangerous to them. They believe that CASTRO and the old members of the 26 July Movement came out ahead in the trial, because they were able to bring adverse facts to light, which were against the PSP and the Directoria, while the 26 July came out clean. CASTRO, as mediator, was able to show his high position and good graces by exonerating leaders of the other groups.

Joaquin ORDOQUI and Edith BUCHACA?

ORDOQUI does not hold an important position and very little public comment is made about him. (L/1 said that ORDOQUI is old and ~~sick~~ and they are waiting around for him to die.) BUCHACA is in good standing and appears to be firmly established in her position. They are supported by Carlos Rafael RODRIGUEZ, Blas ROCA and Cesar ESCALANTE, although this may be political expedient, since the old PSP members must stick together. Comments were made both for and against BUCHACA, but this is because she is a public figure and therefore creates conflicting emotions among the populace.

Part of the doubt about the guilt of Marcos RODRIGUEZ is because of his closeness to ORDOQUI and BUCHACA, but they still have their jobs. This is not natural under a Communist regime, especially after they have been accused as CHOMEN accused them.

What is the significance of the return to Cuba of Anibal ESCALANTE?

(L/1 did not know that he had returned. L/1 thought he was still abroad in, he believed, Czechoslovakia.)

In the light of what was said at the trial about collaboration between the old guard PSP and the Batista Government in the 1950s, what is the prestige of the remnants of the PSP today?

The charges of collaboration brought out during the trial were true and it is a problem for the PSP; however, everyone Importnat knows that the collaboration was a political expediency and none of the Cuban politicos worry about it. CASTRO even said that the collaboration was an expediency and was done during the time when BATISTA was "good".

Does LIVACATE/l believe CASTRO means to crack down more on the PSP?

It should not happen in the near future, if a crack down does occur. The PSP, although now a part of the PURS, still has a lot of influence among the masses and is the best organized of the various groups making up the PURS. This fact would hinder any attempt to crack down on them.

Is CASTRO removing, or is he going to remove, more PSP leaders from positions of power or otherwise degrade them?

No evidence is available that CASTRO is removing old PSP leaders from positions of power nor are there rumors circulating to this effect. (L/l does not believe any action like this will be taken in the near future, but he cannot be sure. L/l said the situation among the leadership in Cuba is so fluid and unstable, except for CASTRO, that anything could happen at any time.)

What do the PSP members feel about their future in the light of the strained feelings between CASTRO and Moscow and in light of what CASTRO permitted to be said against the PSP at the RODRIGUEZ trial?

(L/l did not know the answer to this. All of the factors mentioned in his earlier answers enter into this question. L/l said the situation could change too fast for anyone in Cuba to judge another persons future at any given time, unless you were CASTRO himself.)

What is the PSP view of Cuba-USSR relations?

All of the present Cuban leaders agree that the existing relations between ~~Cuba~~ and the USSR are vital for the life of the Island. Without this aid, the present Government would not exist. Because of this, Cuba will probably support the USSR in all aspects, including the Sino-Soviet split.

What is the PSP view re CASTRO's support of revolutionary acts in Latin America?

The Cuban leaders differ in their approach to this matter. The old PSP leaders believe that it should be left to each country to find its own way of making its revolution, but "Che" and other leaders of the 26 July Movement and the Directorio are doing everything possible to train and develop guerrillas and other armed groups in some countries. On the plane from Mexico to Cuba were eight Brazilians that did not try to hide the fact that they were going to Cuba to take courses in Guerrilla warfare. They were lead by a man called Padre FLEITAS. It is probable that groups of guerrillas will continue to be trained in Cuba. (L/1 answered this question by mail. He will be debriefed further on this point at the next operational meeting.)

What are the relative strengths and appeals of the Soviets and Chinese Communists?

The Chinese Communists have many supporters among the people, students, and military, possibly a clear majority over the Soviets. The old members of the Directorio and a large part of the old members of the 26 July Movement are Chinese Communist supporters; however, everyone knows that the Chinese can not provide the economic aid which Cuba is now receiving from the Soviets so the Soviets have the advantage within and without the Cuban Government. Chinese propaganda at one time was distributed in massive quantities, but they say the Soviets protested and now only equal amounts of propaganda are allowed, i.e. the same amount of Chinese propaganda is allowed to be circulated as Soviet propaganda, but no more.

What would the situation of the old PSP guard be if CASTRO were overthrown?

Not even God knows the answer to this. It is possible that some would fall and others would remain. Who? Who knows.

What did you hear about relationships between the PSP people and those of other regime elements such as those originating with the 26th of July Movement and the Directorio Revolucionario?

The relations between the old militants of the PSP and those of the 26th are cordial in general, but they have difficulties with those of the Directorio. Occasionally there is friction between the old members of the Directorio and the 26th. The 26th is the group charged with maintaining equilibrium between the various elements of the regime.

Is CASTRO stronger or weaker since the Marcos RODRIGUEZ Trial?

Stronger. CASTRO acted as mediator between the conflicting elements evident in the trial. He was able to make the PSP and the Directorio look bad, while the 26 July Movement looked good, because it had not been involved in collaborating with the Batista Government nor had traitors in its midst.

Please give full information on the current situation of the Partido Unido. How fast is it developing, what is speeding it up or slowing it down, who are the real leaders at the base or working levels, how strong are the PSP elements in this new Party?

The construction of the PURS is proceeding badly because there has been no agreement reached on how to integrate the directive bodies of provincial organizations and the national organizations. Progress has been slow and only at the base, with the base committees being organized to give the old members of the 26 July Movement top billing, the old members of the PSP next, and the old members of the Directorio last. CALDERIN said that the PURS was not well organized because the National Committee is only provisional and any top person could be changed at any time. These top leaders are hesitant to make decisions because a wrong decision could cause their removal. It appears that the organization of the Union de Jovenes Comunistas is proceeding much better than that of the PURS.

What did you hear about the declarations of Juana CASTRO?

It is forbidden to mention her, and I did not hear any comment.

Are you aware of the significance of recent personnel changes at the top echelons of the Bank of Cuba and the Ministry of Foreign Trade?

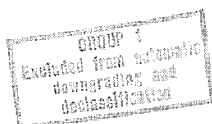

No.

Do the PSP people believe there is a struggle between Carlos Rafael RODRIGUEZ and "Che" GUEVARA? If so, what are the issues and who is stronger?

There are publicly known differences between RODRIGUEZ and GUEVARA over questions dealing with the Cuban economic order, but I do not know which has predominance over the other. As far as I was able to ascertain, the differences are more technical or theoretical than political i.e., GUEVARA wants a fast overall industrial development while RODRIGUEZ talks about developing the sugar industry and then working on other industrial development. They also have had differences of opinion on the exact power each of their respective ministries has.

What is the PSP view on U-2 overflights of Cuba and what do they think Cuba should do about them?

No comments were made about this, but everyone says they have the ability to shoot them down, if that becomes necessary.

Does the PSP really believe the USSR would ever afford substantial help to CASTRO in the event of revolution against him?

They are convinced that the USSR would do so and they count on this help to destroy any attempt inside the country to change the present regime.

Assess current PSP thinking about Fidel CASTRO himself. Do they like him or disapprove of him? Reasons?

The PSP helps and accepts CASTRO in all things. They realize that he is the man of the present and of the future and that against him or without him nothing could be done. They say that more than Marxism in Cuba there is Castroism and that is the way things are. CASTRO appears to enjoy his role as the great man and supreme arbiter of everyone's destiny.

Information on Soviet and orbit technicians. Who are they, what are they working at, how are they regarded by the PSP and people of Cuba generally?

There is a large number of Soviet technicians in Cuba working in the industrial, agricultural, armed forces, and educational fields. The people see them as a necessary evil, since without them their economic and defense plans could not be accomplished. They are confident that they can soon replace them with Cuban technicians who are being trained in the USSR. Among the people they are treated with indifference, except in public meetings where they are treated very cordially. As a sidelight, HERNANDEZ said that both Governments were worried about the increasing number of Cuban students in the USSR marrying Russian women and the Soviet technicians marrying Cuban women; so in 1963 they reached an agreement to put so much paperwork in the way of these marriages that they are just about impossible to arrange. She said some still take place, but not many.

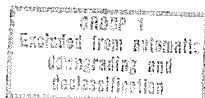

Are there any indications of splits within the ruling classes and bureaucracy? What would be the causes and issues?

I cannot answer this. There are conflicts between the old members of the PSP, 26 July and Directorio, but these occur at high-levels and are not reflected in lower levels of the regime.

What is the status of public and PSP morale in view of the Pilon incident and the mobilization of May 1964?

I cannot answer this.

~~SECRET/NO FOREIGN DISSEM~~

What are the PSP views about "Che" GUEVARA and Raul CASTRO?

The PSP does not like "Che" because of his "adventurism", although they realize that he is one of CASTRO's main men. They frequently criticize him because of his desire to send trained guerrillas all over Latin America. On the other hand, he works hard and what he accomplishes is admired by all of the main leaders, including the PSP.

Raul CASTRO is the key man of the future for the PSP and he is being prepared to take over in case something happens to Fidel. Everyone says that Raul is the "Dolphin of Cuba".

What is the present status and prestige of Carlos Rafael RODRIGUEZ, Blas ROCA, Lazaro PINA, "Che" GUEVARA, Raul VALDEZ VIVO, Alfredo GUEVARA, Mirta AGUIRRE, Juan MARINELLO, Severo AGUIRRE, Faure CHOMON, and Vicentina ANTINA?

Carlos Rafael, Blas, Lazaro, "Che", and CHOMON have a great deal of prestige, each in his own specialty and the people consider them among the great leaders. Raul VALDEZ, MARINELLO, and Severo AGUIRRE also have a lot of prestige although less than those mentioned above, because they occupy secondary positions. They are better known among the people in their respective work sectors. Alfredo GUEVARA is a politician in absence, since he was just named to a new post as assistant to LECHUGA working in the cultural field. I do not know any of the others and did not hear anything about them.

COMMENT BY LIVACATE/L: "You must remember that in Cuba they no longer speak about the PSP, Directorio or the 26 July Movement. When they mention "The Party" they are referring to the PURS. There are different tendencies and currents within the PURS, but everything is being done to alleviate these. More and more each day. The old leaders of the PSP, Directorio and 26 July Movement are forgetting their old organizations and integrating into the new apparatus."

GENERAL

LIVACATE/L was in Cuba one other time, before this trip. This was in 1953 when he went through Cuba on a return trip from Europe. L/L did not see much because he was arrested as a "suspicious" person and was not released until after he had contacted the Mexican Embassy in Habana. He then left for Mexico.

L/1 said that Cuba looks run-down at the present time, but that the people have apparently grown used to shortages, etc., because he did not hear many complaints. The people do not give a second glance to the Soviets in civilian clothing nor to the militia members standing around with rifles and machine-guns.

L/1 felt that there had been a decrease in the amount of enthusiasm behind the revolution, but said he could not be sure, because he was basing his opinion on pictures he had seen and articles he had read in the past.

According to L/1, the Regime is extremely well implanted and it would be difficult if not impossible to get rid of it without armed intervention.

a. DUHAY-1 received 3 months of training in sabotage and guerrilla warfare. After his return to Lima he was immediately sent to Oroya by MIR leaders in Lima to participate in the attack against the Cerro de Pasco smelter. Three Cubans and Cuba-trained Peruvians have been identified by Peruvian security services as participating in this multi-million dollar destruction.

b. DUHAY-1 is now in hiding under Lima Station control and is providing valuable information through a lengthy debriefing plan. His reports have covered details on guerrilla warfare training received, Soviet participation in Cuban defense, identities of fellow trainees with character and operational descriptions, order of battle information, and MIR and ELN (National Liberation Army) organizational efforts. Of particular importance was the very detailed map of the Bejucal launching site with descriptive details, and the "58 questions" given all of the Peruvian trainees.

HAVANA URGING INCREASED VIOLENCE IN LATIN AMERICA

Clandestine reports from Latin American revolutionaries who visited Cuba last summer and have recently returned home provide further evidence that the Castro regime is bypassing the orthodox Communist parties of Latin America in an attempt to incite dissident Communist groups and other leftist extremists to early violent action. Such a ploy was suggested in Castro's speeches of 26 July and 28 September and in Che Guevara's article in the regime's ideological journal last month, in which he argued that guerrilla warfare is the only correct method of achieving revolutionary power. The recent clandestine reports demonstrate that the Cuban effort is more than propaganda.

The reports indicate that during the summer, the Cubans were still trying to give the appearance of cordiality to visitors representing the orthodox Communist parties, but were at the same time inconspicuously conferring with representatives of the extremist factions. During the 26 July celebrations, for instance, the representative of the orthodox Brazilian Communist Party was accorded various ceremonial honors, but it was a member of the dissident, pro-Peiping Communist Party of Brazil who was treated to long personal conferences with high regime leaders and went home convinced that Havana favored his group.

This dissident Communist from Brazil reported on his return home, according to a usually reliable source in his party, that Che Guevara had spelled out the Cuban views concerning the two rival Communist groups in Brazil. Guevara explained that the Communist movement in Latin America is divided into two camps--the "revisionist" and the "revolutionary." Guevara charged that the orthodox Brazilian party belonged to the "revisionist" camp and adhered to "opportunistic" policies. The dissident party, on the other hand, received Guevara's praise for seeking to cause the downfall of capitalism and imperialism through armed insurrection.

A Panamanian extremist who went to Cuba in July reported after his recent return home that Fidel Castro had personally challenged the Panamanian revolutionaries to "do something" soon. Castro is said to have declared that in the future only those who are really fighting for the "liberation" of their countries will be invited to Cuba for the 26 July celebrations.

An unidentified member of the Communist Party of Chile who was described as "a prominent leader" of the party is quoted as saying while in Cuba last summer that revolutionary action will begin in Chile despite the expected resistance of those party leaders who "follow the revisionist policies of the USSR." Intensification of Intelligence Coverage of the Castro Regime by Use of CP Penetration Assets
1. The intelligence coverage of the Castro/Communist regime is a priority requirement of ODYOKE, and Chief, KUBARK, has directed an intensification of efforts to meet present and future needs. This dispatch is concerned with one operational program deemed to have considerable potential for increasing and improving our overall coverage of the Castro/Communist regime. It involves the exploitation of KUBARK's existing CP and front penetration assets to gain access to Cuban regime and Communist targets. A Headquarters review of these assets indicates that many of them may be able to travel to Cuba for varying periods of time and to contribute to the operational and intelligence objectives of the program. 2. Operationally, the objectives briefly are: a. to identify regime, Communist, and intelligence officials who show signs of disaffection or insecurity and thus may be susceptible to recruitment in place or defection; b. to obtain information for fragmentation operations and related efforts to split the regime; c. to acquire information to foster, exploit, and intensify conflicts between old-time (PSP) Communist and Castro regime leaders and "new Communists"; d. to penetrate, monitor, and neutralize Soviet/Cuban operations to export the Castro/Communist revolution into Latin America; e. to detect exploitation of the international Communist conspiracy for intelligence purposes, and to exploit or neutralize such operations.

a. The role of the Soviet Union, Communist China, and other bloc countries in Cuba; Soviet-Cuban and Chicom-Cuban relations; Soviet methods of control and Chicom efforts to gain control over the Castro regime; Soviet and Chicom efforts to use old-time Communist (PSP) leaders to weaken Castro's position.
